

I agree that Malibu Family Wines should get an AVA because there a very dedicated company not just a company but a family they grow there grapes with love and care. I think if they hade an AVA they could create all kinds of flavorful wines. Before going to Napa Valley I thought making wine was just throwing the grapes in to a big bucket and stepping on them just like the scene in I love Lucy When I visited the winery I learned a lot of things like you have to cover up the grapes so the birds want get to them, I learned that you might have six stems but you should cut three of them off so the flavor can get stronger. I just don't see a reason why they should not get an AVA. Some companies get to big and don't care about the people who by the wine but not Malibu Family wines they care they even gave my culinary art class a full tour for free. They were very patient answering every question my fellow students ask. I like the name Saddle Rock-Malibu just like it is I don't think the name should change because if so a customer might think it's a different brand. Why should the name be changed anyway just to make it sound more updated. An A.V.A. would really be appreciated by the Saddle Rock- Malibu family wines. Just imagine with an AVA Malibu wines would be something amazing.
